Social Service Meets.

Mrs. T. E. Pollock entertained several ladies of the Social Service at her home on Tuesday afternoon. The primary object of the meeting was to discuss ways and means for sending a little blind child and two little crippled children to institutions where they may be properly cared for and receive the necessary surgical attention, the former to the school for the blind, at Tucson, and the other two to Dr. Loken's hospital for crippled children at Albuquerque. Both institutions will be communicated with to learn whether the children will be admitted and if it is learned that they can be, means will be found at once to send them.

Refreshments were served. Those present besides Mrs. Pollock were Mrs. C. W. Isham, Mrs. J. P. Wilson, Mrs. E. M. Robison, Mrs. D. S. Roome, Mrs. R. G. Stevenson and Miss Johnson, the community nurse.

CONDUCTOR AND OPERATOR BLAMED FOR WRECK

Division of the blame that caused two deaths near Kirkland July 9, between Operator Hazel Johnson, of the Skull Valley station, and Conductor E. J. Dignan was accomplished by the coroner's jury in its formal report to Coroner H. McLane. Miss Johnson, who has already gone to California to live, is said to have mistaken and confused her orders, and Conductor Dignan to have been careless in not taking with him an order he had once signed for.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Heisser entertained Mr. Heisser's assistants in the postoffice on Thursday night, last, at a bountiful picnic supper at Lake Mary. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Heisser, those partaking were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clarke, Miss Lutie Paxton, Miss Dwyer, Miss Hazel Garing, Miss Madeline Brandt, Decker Williams, Lester Fleck, Dan Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wight, Michael Ginsburg, Mr. Quade, Mr. Peck, Cy Bendorf, Miss Marie Garrett, Miss Rose Garrett, Miss Virginia Phelan and Miss Pauline Jones.

Mrs. Stevenson Hostess At Series of Functions.

Mrs. R. G. Stevenson is to be hostess tonight at a bridge party to several of her and Mr. Stevenson's friends. Tomorrow morning she and her husband will entertain again at a "neighborhood breakfast." In the afternoon, beginning at 4 p. m., she will entertain at a bridge tea, an affair from which all men will be rigidly excluded. On Tuesday afternoon, from 3 to 8, Mrs. Stevenson will again be hostess, this time at a tea for the Episcopal church. Until 6 o'clock, any one of the male persuasion who ventures to intrude will be frowned upon; but after that hour the latchstring is out for them and they are cordially invited to come, partake of the good things and then play cards.

AMONG CANDIDATES FOR COUNTY OFFICES

inals has also contributed to their popularity.

Mr. Gold is a 1904 graduate of the Kansas State University, was later county attorney in Rooks county, Kans., came to Williams in 1913, where he was police judge, and came here in 1919.

Mr. Harben graduated from the Georgia State University in 1905, came to Williams about ten years ago, was later elected city attorney there, and in 1914 went to Phoenix, where he was assistant attorney general of the state until his enlistment in the army. He came here in March, 1919, to become a law partner of Mr. Gold. He was lately appointed judge advocate for the military department of the state, with rank of major.

County Attorney Gold has established a record as a successful prosecutor during the one and a half years he has been in office, having secured 22 convictions, one of which resulted in hanging, the others in penitentiary sentences of from one to 35 years.

Mrs. Acker, Superintendent. Mrs. Charlotte Acker, present county superintendent of schools, is a candidate for renomination in the democratic primary.

Whatever one's party affiliation may be, there is no gainsaying the fact that Mrs. Acker has made an efficient superintendent. She is splendidly equipped for the position both by education and experience, and gives to her work conscientious, every-day attention and sympathetic understanding of the needs of both pupils and teachers. Mrs. Acker is progressive in her ideas, is for constant improvement of school conditions in rural communities.

Mrs. Acker taught for years in the Flagstaff public schools, both in the old building and in the present Emerson school building, and also has had several years' experience in teaching rural schools.

Following her experience as a teacher, she served four years as deputy county treasurer, while her husband, S. A. Acker, was treasurer, in that position becoming thoroughly familiar with the manner in which the school moneys are apportioned. On January 1, last year, she was appointed deputy school superintendent by Miss Lenore Francis (Mrs. M. O. Dumas) and upon the latter's marriage and resignation, was appointed, on March 1, this year, by the board of supervisors to fill out the unexpired term.

Mrs. Acker desires re-election both because of her love for school work and because her experience has brought to her attention numerous things that she believes she can accomplish in improving school conditions if given another term in which to bring them into effect.

Sheriff Jack Harrington. Jack Harrington's record during his term as sheriff justifies him in the belief that it entitles him to ask for another term. So he requests the republicans to nominate him.

Jack hasn't gone out of the way to stir up trouble for minor offenders—the kind that take a little snifter when the snifter is good, or that are wont to play a little penny ante for diversion. He believes that an officer should use discrimination and judgment, that a sheriff should not go around trying to fasten trouble on every one he meets; but that he should conduct his office for real protection of the public and the punishment of real offenders. He points to the fact that this county averages up as well or better than any other in the state, morally, as proof that the law is generally respected here. He asserts that in the various criminal offenses that have occurred within his jurisdiction, the only offender that has escaped arrest is a man who stole an auto. He says that his books will show that his office has been conducted with less expense to the taxpayers than in any previous administration for years, and along with that cites the fact that through his original discovery of grazing conditions beyond the Grand Canyon and his subsequent work, in which he was assisted by the county attorney, more than $13,000 in grazing fees have already been collected from Utah stockmen grazing this side of the border, with many thousands in additional fees still to be gathered in for this year, besides the revenue from this source that will come each year in the future.

Jack is too well known to require any sketch of his life here. Suffice it to say that he served two years as street commissioner, two years as member of the city council, and ten years as justice of the peace before he became sheriff, and that he attended to each of these jobs faithfully and well.

Tom Drum for Sheriff.

L. S. Drum, or "Tom," as his many friends always have and probably always will call him, unless they have the opportunity later to call him "sheriff," has thrown his hat into the ring as candidate in the republican primary for nomination for that office.

Most everyone in these parts knows Tom Drum. He came here from Harrisburg, Pa., in 1875, settling near Stoneman lake, where he has ever since raised hogs, spuds and fruit, along with various other things people eat.

Tom has never held public office, except by appointment, his tenure on the public payroll being limited to a couple of years when he was deputy sheriff during the first administration of President Cleveland.

Mr. Drum doesn't seem to be devoting much of his time to his candidacy, probably feeling that he has plenty of friends to do that for him. In that surmise he is correct, for many of them are already at work for him. There is no doubt that he will, if elected, prove to be a vigilant, conscientious officer, with plenty of the discrimination that a man in such an office needs.

LATE GENERAL NEWS NOTES

Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist who has been hanging around the edge of the United States for several months, has at last succumbed to his desire to get back into the country and gave himself up to Sheriff Cline of Los Angeles to stand trial for the old charges that have been hanging over him for a number of years.

"How much will this cloth cost a yard?" asked the man who was being measured for a suit.

"Twenty-seven fifty," replied the tailor.

"H'm," mused the customer. "I guess I don't need a suit. You'd better just make me up a watch-fob."
